Suspect in drug case found hiding in closet

By Becky Barnes, Editor

Police arrested a Cynthiana man found attempting to hide in his closet early Tuesday morning.

Ptl. Michael Kiskaden had warrants for the arrest of Victor Jones, 49, 226 Walnut St., on drug charges stemming from a Feb. 28 incident.

Around 1:20 a.m. Tuesday, Kiskaden went to serve the warrant and could hear Jones talking on the telephone inside his apartment. However, Jones refused to answer the door, according to the citation.

Officers forced entry and found Jones lying on the closet floor in his bedroom buried beneath a pile of clothes.

Kiskaden said police went to Jones' home on Feb. 28 to serve a warrant unrelated to drug charges. However, when they entered the home, they observed a shotgun and some drug paraphernalia.

After getting a search warrant, police went back to Jones' residence and seized the illegal property.

According to the Feb. 28 complaint filed by Kiskaden, Jones had possession of .033 grams of cocaine, 13 alprazolam with no prescription, spoon and knife with drug residue, two sets of scales, seven crack pipes, a shotgun and shells and

Superintendent gets nearly perfect evaluation from board

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

The Harrison County School Board returned a glowing annual performance evaluation of Superintendent Andy Dotson, rating him at the top of the scale in eight of nine performance standards.

Only in the performance standard for instructional leadership was he given less than a perfect score, but even that score was only off by a tenth of a point.

Board members went into executive session at the end of the regular April school board meeting to discuss Dotson's annual evaluation. Approximately 20 minutes later, they came out of executive session and board chair Kristy Carey presented the results.

Dotson was evaluated on a scale of 0-4, with zero meaning unacceptable and four being outstanding, against nine performance standards.

Those standards are as follows:

1. Leadership and district culture.
2. Policy and governance.
3. Communications and community relations.
4. Organizational management.
5. Curriculum planning development.
6. Instructional leadership.
7. Human resources management.
8. Values and ethics of leadership.
9. Student achievement and learning.

In comments following the evaluation report, board vice chair Ed Taylor said that this evaluation was probably the best and easiest he has ever performed.

"He [Dotson] puts students first. I know he doesn't live here, but he is as active and involved in our community as anyone could expect. He is in early and leaves late," Taylor

Harrison looking at $18.5 million in road improvements

By Becky Barnes, Editor

If the transportation plan holds true over the next two years, Harrison County will see in excess of $18.5 million in road improvements.

The Kentucky legislature played some give and take to arrive at the 2014-16 Highway Construction Plan, according to state Rep. Tom McKee of the 78th House District.

"I'm very pleased to have voted for the transportation plan," McKee said.

What came out at the end of the session was a proposal that maintained projects that were primarily safety measures and that had been in the last plan.

The largest project that held together in the House and Senate was a new entrance at Harrison Memorial Hospital on KY 32, said McKee.

He said KY 32 will be four lanes and will enhance the safety of turning in and out of HMH.

According to the plan, right of way purchases and utility relocation have been funded for 2014 for $2.2 million. Actual construction of the project is not slated to begin until 2016 with another $4 million price tag.

McKee said the key is to keep the projects in the transportation plan over the next two years.

The money that's in place now, McKee termed "good funding."

A $4.2 million new bridge construction will be done in 2014 for the bridge over Mill Creek on KY 36, four miles west of Cynthiana.

Also in 2014 will be the right of way purchases and utility relocation for a reconstruction on U.S. 62 East at Salem Pike.

McKee said this was a dangerous spot on U.S. 62 where there have been fatalities.

The $3.9 million construction is slated for 2015.

Another reconstruction of a dangerous stretch of road has funding only for the right of way purchases and utility relocation.

U.S. 27 North at the 11.9 mile marker has $850,000 set aside for 2014. There is no construction funding yet.

According to Kevin Florence, state road supervisor for Harrison County, a textured surface was put in the "S" curve on U.S. 27 North and has so far proven effective for reducing accidents.

There is also a planned bridge replacement for Union-Robinson Road.

The plan calls for $200,000 to be used in 2014 for the right of way and utility needs. Another $3.38 million will used for the actual construction in 2015.

According to the biennial plan, Harrison County will receive $7.7 million in road work in 2014; $6.88 million in 2015; and $4 million in 2016.

Although not in the transportation plan, McKee said the state road department in Harrison County will get a new maintenance garage at a cost of $1.3 million.

The garage will be located off the new bypass on property purchased at the time that right of ways were being purchased.

Although not part of Harrison County's projects, McKee said making U.S. 27 North four lanes between Campbell County and Butler has been funded.

He estimated that it would be a five-year on-going project.

Florence said there are other projects not listed in the transportation plan that he would like to see completed. He said cutting away a bank on Republican Pike in a sharp curve and one on U.S. 27 North at KY 1284 will improve visibility.

Humane Society celebrates 20 years of serving pet population

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

One way that the Humane Society of Harrison County is celebrating its 20th anniversary is by expressing thanks to the Harrison Veterinary Clinic and the Brooks Animal Clinic for supporting the society's spaying and neutering program.

Jill Morgan, president of the Humane Society, said the spaying and neutering program would not be possible were it not for the cooperation of the local veterinarians.

Spaying and Neutering Program

"The Humane Society covers the costs of about 10 spaying/neutering procedures a month throughout the year," Morgan said. "That amounts to about 120 total procedures a year. We really appreciate what our local veterinarians do to try and control the pet population in Harrison County."

The Humane Society has been providing this critical service to Harrison County's low income families for over 15 years.

"We realize that times are hard for some local families. When they are trying to make ends meet, spending the money to neuter a pet is a low priority," Morgan said. "Thanks to contributions from our members and supporters, we can cover a portion, or sometimes even all, of the costs to neuter a family pet."

All a Harrison County family has to do is print and fill out an application which can be found at the Humane Society's website: www.hshc.us.

If a family doesn't own their own computer or printer, the Humane Society suggests using the computers at the Cynthiana - Harrison County Public Library.

Send the application to the address on the form by regular mail along with some proof of being a low-income household. A copy of a Medicaid card, KCHIP card, K-TAP, WIC membership or other proof is acceptable, Morgan said.

Even if a family does not receive federal or state assistance, but is still on the low end of the income scale, the Humane Society can sometimes provide partial support for the cost of spaying or neutering.

"The goal is to control the pet population and we are glad to do what we can to help realize that goal," Morgan said.

Pet Adoption

The Humane Society is also proud of its continuing efforts to host pet adoption events on behalf of the Flora Shropshire Animal Shelter.

The next Humane Society hosted adoption event will be at a special booth at the annual Cynthiana Democrat Home and Garden Show on Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26, at the Burley Coop Marketing Center.

The Humane Society also enjoys organizing fundraisers.

On Friday night, for example, the Humane Society's 20th anniversary celebration will include the Dinky McGowan Magic Show, Friday night at 7 p.m. at the Harrison County High School Auditorium.

The Humane Society has been very proud to offer material support to the Flora Shropshire Animal Shelter throughout its two decades of volunteer service.

Through the work of its active members and aided by tax-deductible donations, the Humane Society has helped build an exercise yard for the animals, added a puppy room and installed the Sallie McKemie Cattery for housing kittens and cats until new homes can be found for them.

They have also contributed in small ways to make the Shropshire shelter more accommodating to its rescued animals, such as animal beds, repair work, and supplies.

Morgan, a relative newcomer to the Humane Society's active membership, continues to be amazed at all that the organization has accomplished in the last two decades.

"We are always looking for new active members to help us with our activities. It has been a rewarding personal experience for me," Morgan said.

The Humane Society of Harrison County expresses its thanks to the doctors and staff at the Harrison Veterinary Clinic. They are Andrea Brooks, Emily Bridge, Alicia Hatfield, Humane Society Secretary Traci Carr, Dr. James R. Rice, Humane Society President Jill Morgan, Dr. David Grinstead, and Amber Whalen.

Gary Dearborn, the newest member of the school board and a former school principal, said that in his 39 years of working in education, Dotson is one of the best superintendents he has ever worked with.

"I'm impressed with him and his work is a blessing to our community," Dearborn said.

Carey expressed thanks to Dotson for his work and commented particularly on his communication skills.

"He has excellent communication skills. His door is open to parents, teachers and staff. His every decision is for the benefit of our students," she said.

Carey was the only one to inject a critical note. "I'm not satisfied with our past test scores. But we are improving every year and there are a lot of positive things going on in the school."

Expressing his appreciation for the scores, Dotson said that he is honored to serve Harrison County. He also said that his evaluation is only a reflection of the excellent teachers, staff and educational leaders working in the school system.

In other business, the school board:

•Approved personnel director Tammy Klapheke's recommendation of a 1.5 percent across the board raise in salary schedules for the 2014-15 school year.

The last time there was a general raise in salaries was three years ago, Dotson added in support of her recommendation.

•Approved the addition of a board-approved teaching position at the high school for career and college readiness; adding a grant-funded reading teaching position at Westside Elementary; and added a district-wide psychologist position to facilitate student testing for purposes of special education assessment.

•Approved field trips to the Cincinnati Museum Center for fifth grade students at the Northside and Southside schools. They also approved a trip for the Fillies Varsity Basketball team to Dayton and the University of Cincinnati for summer team camps.

•Approved the school's 2014 technology plan.

•Among the good news announcements, the board gave a standing ovation in honor of Coach Mac Whitaker whose boys' varsity baseball team won their 1,000th game with him as head coach.

It's good to be in Harrison County

THIS WEEKEND!!

Becky Barnes
Editor

This weekend is going to be one of those that if you can't find something to do in Harrison County, it's your own fault.

There truly is something for everyone Friday through Sunday.

There's something for the sports enthusiast, the gardner, the supporters of the arts, and aviation and car admirers.

Once, every so often, there are weekends so chock full of activities that it's impossible to get to everything. This is going to be one of those.

And, if those things aren't enough, there will be families helping their juniors and seniors prepare for the Saturday night prom.

Friday night kicks off with Alumni Night on the Hilltop. The Harrison County Thorobreds will be hosting former players and coaches as well as inducting former coaches Jim Schmidt and the late Ronnie Earl to the Fence of Fame. That will take place at 6:30 p.m. prior to the Breds taking on Lewis County at 6:45 p.m.

There is also sure to be some more celebration of Coach Mac Whitaker earning his 1,000th win.

Friday will be opening night for Dearly Departed, a Rohs Opera House production that will begin at 7:30 p.m. Encore performances will be on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Also on Friday night will be the Humane Society's fundraising Dinky McGowan Magic Show. It will begin at 7 p.m. at the Harrison County High School auditorium.

On Saturday morning, the 45th annual Harrison County Track Invitational will take place at the Athletic Complex beginning with field events at 10 a.m.

Saturday morning will also be the first leg of the Chamber of Commerce's Triple Crown of 5K races.

Earth Day Race Day registration and packet pick-up will be held at the Cynthiana Harrison County Airport, 582 Airfield Lane beginning at 7:30 a.m. The race is at 9 a.m.

The Cynthiana Democrat's Home and Garden Show will also get under way at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Burley Marketing Co-Op on U.S. 27 North.

It'll take a canned good to get in or a $1 donation, all of which will go to the Harrison County Food Pantry.

There will be nearly 70 booths to browse through as well as the popular food court offering sweet and savory dishes.

The Home and Garden Show will also be open Sunday from 12:30 to 4 p.m.

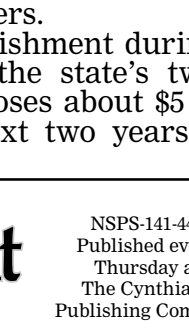

At 11 a.m. Saturday, the annual Aviation Day and Cruise In will begin at the Cynthiana-Harrison County Airport. Admission is free.

The CynCity Line Dancers will perform at 1 p.m.

Again, there are numerous things to do this weekend.

Get involved in the community. You might just like us.

Two-year highway plan will benefit Harrison, Pendleton and Scott

Rep. Tom McKee
Guest Columnist

After meeting long into the night, the General Assembly wrapped up the 2014 legislative session early last week by approving several bills that build on the good work already signed into law.

As you may recall, legislators left the Capitol late last month to give Gov. Beshear time to decide whether to approve or reject the legislation sent to him.

We returned to consider those vetoes, which we accepted, and to act on some other unresolved matters.

The biggest accomplishment during that time was approving the state's two-year highway plan. It proposes about $5 billion overall during the next two years, when counting the unspent revenue from this year.

Harrison, Pendleton and Scott counties did especially well, with the combined two-year funding topping $109 million.

Some of the larger projects include a new I-75 interchange to help with Toyota traffic; four-laning US 27 from Butler to Campbell County; improving the bridge on Mill Creek on KY 36 west of Cynthiana; making it safer on KY 32 in front of Harrison Memorial Hospital; and re-constructing the curve just east of Salem Pike on US 62.

Statewide, there are some other major projects as well.

That includes four-laning the remainder of the Mountain Parkway; widening I-65; and moving forward with the bridge projects in Louisville and at Land Between the Lakes.

While approving a road plan was the highlight of the last two days of this year's session, there were several other bills sent to Gov. Beshear as well.

One of the most far-reaching is an overhaul of the state's juvenile justice system.

A legislative task force studying this issue learned that a significant number of juveniles are being detained for what are called "status offenses," relatively minor violations that include truancy and being a run-away.

These are not matters to ignore, but keeping these adolescents detained for months at a time is not the right approach for them, and it costs the state substantially – about $100,000 a year for each juvenile, which is five times the cost of housing an adult inmate.

The new law will increase community treatment options in these cases, and the savings to the state is estimated at $24 million over the next four years.

Another prominent new law to pass the General Assembly last week will establish a permanent scholarship program to boost the number of graduates with four-year college degrees in the coalfields.

This builds on a pilot program Gov. Beshear created in 2012 in Eastern Kentucky by extending it to all 34 coal-producing counties.

Qualifying students will use the scholarship money, which comes from the coal-severance tax, to help attend upper-level courses at colleges in the coal counties, although there are exceptions if the student's degree program is not available there.

Another new law will increase the training requirements of school district finance officers hired after July 1, 2015. This provision – on top of another calling for more financial reporting – will help increase transparency and accountability in our schools.

Overall, I think it was a productive legislative session, especially when considering the lingering effects of the country's toughest recession in more than 70 years.

Some of the other legislative highlights this year include putting more money toward education; authorizing more than $1 billion worth of new and renovated buildings for our postsecondary schools; and establishing an adult-abuse registry that will decrease the likelihood of someone being hired who had been found guilty of this type of crime.

I'm proud that two of my bills are now law. They will help grocers replace broken eggs in a carton, a cost-saving measure for these businesses; and that will make it easier to landowners to harvest nuisance wildlife on their property.

I received thousands of calls, emails, letters and visits from many of you, and I want to thank you for letting me know your thoughts and concerns.

Although the legislative session is over, it will not be long before our committees begin meeting again in preparation for the next time the General Assembly returns to the Capitol.

Dr. Bob's Barbeque will open Wednesday, April 30

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

When Dr. Bob's Barbecue Restaurant opens to the public next Wednesday, it will be all that Bob Reid can do not to constantly ask people how they like his sauces.

He's always looking for ways to improve.

Retired from his regular job, which Reid jokingly describes as being a "chemist for hire," he decided to take his fascination with creating new barbecue sauces to the market place.

"Most of the barbecue sauces I've bought in the grocery taste exactly the same. Halfway down the ingredient list, you get to stuff that I probably worked with in my other jobs," Reid said.

In his personal time, he's experimented with making a variety of sauces that appeal to his personal tastes. He uses no corn syrup or so-called flavor enhancers like MSG. His recipes are created using regular ingredients - honey, chipotle peppers, garlic and onion. The stuff people find in his home or, now, at the store.

Janet Barnes, his partner in this venture, said that she was always tasting the sauces Bob made in the kitchen.

Prior to embarking on this new direction, Reid spent 41 years working as a chemist with various companies. He's been in Kalamazoo and Atlanta, Cynthiana and Tennessee.

"I returned to Cynthiana about four years ago. I've been thinking a long time about whether a restaurant is worth the investment of time and energy," Reid said.

He admits to being nervous about starting out. He's never managed a restaurant before and plans to lean heavily on his assistant manager Kelsie Slone, a young woman with managerial experience at the fast food level and who is enrolled in a web-based degree program with the Escoffier School of the Culinary Arts.

Reid said he has received encouragement from people in the local area. He's spent months catering his barbecue creations to the Cynthiana Fire Department and the staff and residents of Cedar Ridge.

There are about 11 different barbecue sauces in his repertoire, but for the time being, Dr. Bob's Barbecue will feature the five that appear to have the greatest appeal from his early customers.

On the menu he has the following sauces listed: Dr. Bob's Favorite, Carolina Tangy, Sweet Carolina, House Recipe, which is Reid's first barbecue sauce and one that seems consistently popular with tasters, and a Honey Brown Sugar that he said is a big hit with the Cedar Ridge staff.

"The feedback I've received in the last few years has been good enough for me to take this leap," Reid said.

The dominant feature of Dr. Bob's menu will be the barbecue. He is prepared to offer the meats in any fashion customer's prefer. There will be Texas style brisket, baby back ribs, St. Louis style ribs, and even Kentucky-style pulled barbecue, though probably not western Kentucky style mutton.

Unless, of course, there's customer demand for it.

There will be other menu choices for those who are not barbecue fans. Popular comfort food with a touch of Dr. Bob's unique flavors.

Among Dr. Bob's other menu choices, Reid was particularly excited about serving their authentic Chicago-style hot dog.

"My mother is from Chicago. She can't wait to try this hot dog," Barnes said.

With just a few days left to go before their grand opening, Reid, Barnes, and Slone are up to their elbows in paperwork and hiring wait and kitchen staff.

"We're bringing in an impressive group of young people to help us out. We're having a special opening day for them and their parents Wednesday. Then a week later, it all begins," Reid said.

UNINTENDED TRUCK WASH — Just after launching his fishing boat on the South Fork of the Licking River, the brake line popped in Daryl Perraut's truck and it slid into the river after the boat. Fortunately, the team at Dailey's Body Shop were close enough to respond immediately to the emergency. In the picture, Trevor Maxwell and Dexter Dailey are holding the tow line while Perraut hooks the cable to the front end of his truck.

Election workers still needed for May 20 primary

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

Harrison County Clerk Linda Furnish was given permission to recruit additional election officers to assist with the primary election on Tuesday, May 20.

At the conclusion of the regular April meeting of the Harrison County Fiscal Court, Furnish said she anticipates a very heavy voter turnout for the primary election.

Voting in local campaigns is always heavy, she said. There are signs that turnout this year may set some records, she said.

However, recent redistricting of voting districts is likely to cause a lot of confusion among voters at the polls. She is currently training 11 new officers who have never participated in an election before. Others who are experienced and willing to help are unable because they have family connections to candidates, Furnish said.

"I anticipate there will be a lot of confusion at the polls. People won't know if they are registered. There will be others who don't realize they're voting in another district," Furnish said.

She is considering several options to relieve the problem. The court members granted her permission to take whatever means are necessary to ensure a smooth voting process.

In other business, the court:

•Agreed to consider a reduction in the speed limit on Jones Road between Oddville Road and Salem Pike. A resident said that driving conditions on that road are hazardous. He is concerned that drivers aren't aware of a growing traffic of Amish families on that road.

•Bonnie Skinner, director of planning and community development, said that the city commission was open to discuss combining city and county code enforcement into one entity with the joint planning commission.

City files extension for Safe Routes to School sidewalk improvement

By Becky Barnes, Editor

It appears that the sidewalk improvement project is back on the table.

Cynthiana received a Safe Routes to School grant in 2008 for $247,000. The plan was to build new sidewalks from the Hilltop to include about 7,000 feet of repairs.

In 2010, the city's advisor expressed frustration with the number of federal requirements that were attached to the grant.

The plans stalled for awhile. However, the Cynthiana City Commission voted Tuesday to authorize the mayor to sign an extension.

Mayor Steve Moses said once the extension is signed he anticipates to be receiving bids for the project in May.

In other business, the commission:

•Unanimously authorized attorneys for the city, Planning and Zoning, Code Enforcement and the county to draft a plan that would bring the three agencies under one jurisdiction.

Bonnie Skinner, director of Planning and Zoning, told commissioners that it sometimes become confusing as to which agency should be contacted.

•Approved the second and final reading of an ordinance approving Sunday liquor sales at private clubs such as the Cynthiana Country Club.

The ordinance specifies that the private club is responsible for acquiring all state and local permits and licenses.

•Commissioner Gary Brunker, who serves on the HCAL board, said that building plans for an activity center have been down scaled. Initial plans were for a $2.5 bricks and mortar building. That has been reduced to a $670,000 to $750,000 metal building.

He said plans are still to locate the center near the health department on the hill adjacent to Flat Run Veterans' Park. He said the center could then share parking with the health department.

He said he doubted that the center would be realized this summer, but possibly next summer.

•Agreed to hire a full-time telecommunicator.

•Heard Brunker report that two new SUV-type vehicles would be ordered for the police department.

•Accepted the retirement of Sgt. Wilbur Gross, effective May 30.

"If we accept it now, we could very well come back and reverse it later," said Brunker.

•Authorized Brunker to advertise for two full-time police officers.

•Acknowledged that Saturday, April 26, is National Prescription Take-Back Day. The police department on East Pleasant Street will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to accept unused or expired prescriptions for destruction.

•Heard Commissioner Roger Slade report that the Department of Public Works has been cold patching pot holes. He said a different mix is being used and it appears to be holding up better.

•Agreed to advertise for 500 new water meters.

•Heard the mayor announced that Dorothy Slade was recognized with a proclamation honoring her years of service to the Harrison County Historical Society.

Poor turnout for P&Z meeting to discuss sign regulations

By Josh Shepherd, News writer

Despite an effort by the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning Commission to get input from business owners and the general public about an ordinance regulating off-premises advertising signs, the poor turnout at the regular April meeting left the future direction of that ordinance ambiguous.

There was basically only one agenda item for the April meeting, which was to invite public input into the off-premises ordinance that the Commission adopted about two years ago. The ordinance prohibits all off-premises advertising signs.

It was meant to be a continuation of a heated discussion that surfaced at the last commission meeting two months ago.

However, there appeared to be a consensus among most commission members that some changes to the existing ordinance should be made. But it was difficult for them to suggest a compromise given the general lack of public participation in the regular meeting which invited public input.

The existing ordinance, which prohibits all off-premises signs, remains in effect, according to Planning Commission Chair Avi Bear. In the meantime, however, the commission members have asked Bonnie Skinner, Director of Planning and Community Development, to review off-premises sign ordinances in neighboring and similar communities.

The public forum was the primary item on the Commission's agenda.

Besides the members of the planning commission, only six other people attended the public forum: Cynthiana Mayor Steve Moses, Magistrate Frank Henson, Jack Keith, Attorney and Cynthiana Commission member; Mainstreet Program Director Emily Ammerman; the Cynthiana Democrat; and Stan Lemons, owner of Uniques in Cynthiana.

Before opening the forum to public input, Bear reminded those in attendance that the subject for discussion was the content of the off-premises sign ordinance and not on any specific sign.

Despite Bear's reminder, though, Keith took the floor and voiced his concern about the Commission's position on the electronic sign owned by Eric Hadley at the intersection of Main and Pike Streets.

Bear re-asserted that the subject matter for discussion was the language of the ordinance itself and that there would not be a discussion of specific signs at this meeting.

Before relinquishing the floor, Keith voiced his intended opposition to any move the Commission may make against the existing electronic sign and pointed out that Hadley had already jumped through bureaucratic hoops to secure permission for that sign to exist.

Commission attorney Brian Privett stated that the board makes policy decisions and amends ordinances. "The only person with enforcement powers is the director, Bonnie Skinner," Privett said.

As one of the few retail business owners at the meeting, Lemons commented that the existing ordinance prohibiting all off-premise signage goes too far.

"Advertising signs in different places help our businesses. A regulation that says I can't use signs outside of my place to advertise is against business," Lemons said.

Taking exception to the suggestion that the Commission was "not business friendly," Bear said that planning commission are often in a difficult position when it comes to regulations and ordinances.

"This board wants our community to thrive. We want our businesses to grow. But we are also trying to manage how we develop into the future," Bear replied.

Lemons suggested that commission members consider how important off-premises signs are to businesses in Pigeon Forge and Gatlinburg.

Bear pointed out the other extreme at Hilton Head, where advertising signs were strictly prohibited.

Keith and Commission member Kelvin Combs each pointed out that neither example was relevant to Cynthiana.

"We really need to think about what is in the best interest of Cynthiana," Combs commented.

Commission member David Kramer said that the discussion was not giving him a sense of direction at all. He asked Lemons to clarify the business owner's specific needs for signs.

"The only suggestions we have right now is to allow downtown restaurants to put out a stand-up sign on the sidewalk and business signs. I'm still looking for clear guidance on this," Kramer said

In response to Kramer's question, Lemons said he could use all the signs he could get if it would bring customers to his store.

However, he did agree that there needs to be some regulations on the kinds of off-premises signs allowed in Harrison County.

When asked for her input, Emily Ammerman said that she is not a fan of unregulated advertising signs. But she recognizes that some local businesses need that resource for their advertising.

"I favor heavy regulation over the appearance and types of off-premises signs that are allowed in the community," she said.

Ammerman's opinion was one that seemed to be shared by most Commission members.

"I favor a change in policy to allow for some kinds of signs," said commission member Matt Harney. But even he was stuck for a direction that would walk the fine line between tasteful and ugly displays in the city and county.

Privett said that the commission could amend the ordinance to allow pretty much anything it wanted to accomplish. But the general feeling was a wish for more public input into the issue.

No action was taken on the issue. The board asked Skinner to research similar ordinances in other counties and inform the commission of her findings.

The commission would then consider whether to amend the ordinance or keep it the same, said Bear.

Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi to install new officers at May meeting

Omega chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday, April 7 at the home of Judy Judy. Bonnie Teater, president, thanked the hostess and scheduled hostess Pat Terhune for being flexible in helping everyone get home in time to watch UK play in the championship game of the NCAA. Twelve members answered the question "how will you behave during the UK game tonight?" Most said by pacing, yelling and screaming.

The reading of the minutes for the last meeting was given by the secretary, and were approved. Several commented on the newspaper article in the recent Democrat.

Linda Root, treasurer, gave the monthly balance and bills were paid. She reported that the Endowment fund and the Scholarship fund had been sent to International. Also, a check has been sent to pay for Omega's part of the Beta Sigma Phi sign at the entrance to our city.

The nominating committee consisting of Pat Terhune, Linda Root, and Patsy Barnett announced the slate of officers for next year. They are: Charlene Dawson-president, Judy Judy-vice president, Nancy Deitemeyer-recording secretary, Linda Root-treasurer, Pat Terhune-corresponding secretary and Bonnie Teater-Extension Officer. These new officers will be installed at the May meeting.

Judy gave plans for the meal served to Clifton Village on April 12. Bingo will be played, with prizes given. Easter treats will be distributed to all who come. Also, the Judy Mitchell Letcher scholarship applications have been collected with 12 senior girls applying. The winner will be announced on awards day at the high school.

Girl of the year will be voted on this evening. This award is given to a member who most exemplifies the ideal of a Beta Sigma Phi woman. Program of the year will also be voted on for the best cultural program given.

Barbara Snopek gave details for Honors Night to be held April 28 at the Christian Church. Invitations have been sent to the three other chapters. Social is 6:30 with dinner at 7.

Omega is host for the evening and will present a program with the theme "Sorority lights up your life."

Teater reminded members of the monthly breakfast April 18.

She also announced the May meeting will be held at her home on May 5. Secret sisters will be revealed at that time.

Terhune gave the program for the evening on how laughter lights up our lives. She said it is mentioned often in the Bible. It is part of an international human vocabulary. It is a powerful antidote to stress, conflict, and pain. It can keep you grounded and alert, and is contagious.

Teater led the group with the closing ritual and mizpah.

Church

The Narrow Road

Cecil Bowling

Faith Pentecostal Church

During my senior year of high school, I lived with my grandparents. My grandparents lived, at that time, a mile off the main dirt road. The joke around there was the sun set between Somerset and their house.

In order to get to their house you have to drive up one side of a big hill, when you get to the top you make a right turn and go down one side. You drove for five miles through the valley then you turned down their little dirt road.

This little dirt road was narrow and full of holes you could lose a car in. As a matter-of-fact, a car could only go about half a mile, then you had to get out and walk the rest of the way. A 4-wheel drive truck worked better, but you still had to be careful. On one-side, a big hill, on the other side was a drop off.

Holes in the road big enough to center a truck and then you would be stuck. So driving down this road you were dodging all kinds of obstacles.

Walking wasn't much better. It was easier to dodge the holes, there were creeks to cross on the way and of course, the ever present copperhead snake. It was wise to walk in the daylight and stay in the center of the road.

Matthew 7:14 says "Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

Our walk with the Lord is the same way. It's a narrow road, very few are actually on it. There are tribulations and trials on this road. Satan, that snake, does lurk on the edges of the road looking for his next victim.

This road can be navigated though. When we have the word of God, it lights our path (Psalm 119:105).

The Holy Spirit is there to guide us. God doesn't leave us to walk this narrow path alone. Jesus is there with us. Though there may be few on the road, the road can be traveled. Though there are not many on it, doesn't mean that it is empty. There are other Christians on this road. We can help each other make it home.

Grace Notes

Here's a great idea: Let's stop fighting.

All of us who believe in Jesus, let's all stop nit-picking the peripherals and incidentals of our faith. After all, we are all one, right?

I got this great idea even before going to see a local Pentecostal preacher for a story I was working on about Pentecostalism. Even though I had reams of history and background information, I wanted to talk to a real Pentecostal -- a Holy Ghost preacher.

As we sat and talked about Pentecostalism, the preacher's eyes danced. He obviously loved his faith; he loved God and loved being filled with the Holy Ghost and all the manifestations that brings: speaking in tongues, being slain in the Spirit, and believing in and witnessing miracle healings.

He told me that at age 9 he attended a tent meeting in Knoxville, Tenn. He still remembered the sawdust on the floor and lying on the ground, tears streaming down his face, sorry for the wrong he had done, and then receiving the Spirit of God.

"My daddy picked me up and took me home," he told me. "I was still speaking in tongues when my mama put my pajamas on me and put me to bed."

He also said that Pentecostalism has been around a long, long time; that it didn't begin in 1906 as most people think, but in 33 A.D. on the day of Pentecost when the Holy Spirit blew into the room where the disciples were gathered, sounding like a violent wind. Tongues of fire fell that day, and the disciples were filled with the Spirit.

When the power of God came, the preacher said, they began speaking in strange tongues. Pentecostals believe that still happens today.

I asked him why Presbyterians don't speak in tongues (although some might, I suppose). He said they could if they wanted to.

"The promise is for everyone who asks for it," he said.

I didn't tell him that I asked for it before, but I never got it.

Years ago, a Pentecostal neighbor decided that I needed to speak in tongues and tried teaching me. But as hard as she tried and I tried, it didn't work. It's like algebra -- I could never get that either.

Eventually, I told my neighbor that I was content to not speak in tongues and that I hoped she could be content with not trying anymore to make me do it. After that, I think she felt sorry for me, the poor, un-tongued, heathen shlub.

She seemed to think Pentecostalism was the only ticket in town. She probably doubted my salvation.

Ha! Some people still doubt if I'm truly saved.

Although I have nothing against Pentecostalism, some people do. Some argue vehemently that speaking in tongues ceased when the Bible was completed and that being slain in the Spirit (falling on the ground in a rapturous state) is from the devil, not the Lord.

Not all, but some Pentecostals think non-Pentecostals are not real believers or maybe we're not as complete. So we've got the "haves" and the "have-nots" pitted against each other, each thinking the other guy's wrong. That's not even throwing the way different groups baptize into the mix. When sprinklers and dunkers get going at each other, you've got all-out combat.

I guess all I'm trying to say is that not all believers in Jesus worship in the same manner, but we all worship the same Jesus.

"There is one body and one Spirit," wrote the apostle Paul to the Ephesians, "just as (we) were called to one hope … one Lord, one faith, one baptism: one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all" (Ephesians 4:4-6).

One day God will gather all of his people around him -- Pentecostals and Presbyterians, charismatics and Calvinists, too. I think he'll tell us all to sit still, and then he'll say that we all got a whole lot of things wrong and that we fought over things not worth fighting about, but because we got Jesus right, that's all that counts.

Maybe we'll all shout and dance and the Baptists and Presbyterians will speak in tongues while the Pentecostals sit on their hands and nod, or maybe we'll all eat strawberry rhubarb pie or drink martinis.

Either way, because we got Jesus right, we will have stopped our fighting and our Father will be pleased.

But why wait until then?

Harrison County uses 4-run first to beat Wildcats 8-3 Tuesday

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Harrison County Thorobreds began where they left off Monday night by striking for four runs on four hits, a sacrifice and a walk in the first inning Tuesday to defeat Pendleton County, 8-3.

The game, played on the Hilltop, saw the Wildcats bring a six-game winning streak into the contest. In fact, the last Wildcats' loss was to Harrison County, 6-0, on April 1 in Falmouth.

C.J. Claypool led off the bottom of the first with a single followed by a single by Brett Persinger, a sacrifice by Robbie Stroub and a two-RBI single by John King.

King then scored on Zach Royce's double. Royce then stole third and scored on a sacrifice fly to right by Conner Free.

Pendleton County threatened to score in both the first and second innings leaving five runners stranded in the first two stanzas.

The Breds plated two more in the bottom of the second as Luke Slucher opened the inning with a walk and advanced to third on Claypool's double.

Stroub hit a sacrifice fly scoring Slucher and King doubled to score Claypool before Pendleton County could get the third out in the second inning.

Slucher drove in Conner Free in the fifth for a 7-0 Harrison County lead before Pendleton County finally got on the scoreboard with a run in the top of the sixth.

A one-out error at short led to the unearned run for the Wildcats in the inning.

A single by Stroub and another hit for King, this one a double, added the eighth and final run for the Breds in the bottom of the sixth.

Breds finish 2nd, Fillies 6th in Mason County Meet

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

After missing another meet due to poor weather conditions on Tuesday at Scott County, the Harrison County track team performed in Maysville Saturday in the Mason County Invitational.

The 17-team event featured schools from Indiana and Ohio as well as the Kentucky teams.

Harrison County shook off the rust nicely as both teams performed well in events which they entered.

Kassidy Cook was named the outstanding female competitor in the meet as the Fillies' junior won the triple jump and the 100M hurdles as well as finishing seventh in the high jump and the long jump.

Cook had a lot of help from her teammates in this meet as Harrison County was sixth overall just a few points behind fifth place South Dearborn High School of Indiana.

Dixie Heights edged Simon Kenton by two points to win the girls' portion of the meet.

Caylin Mattox was second in the 100M hurdles and third in the 300M hurdles while Haley Carr was third in the 100M hurdles and second in the 300M hurdles. Carr and Mattox teamed up with Hannah Thomas and Mia Lail to finish fifth in the 400M relay and the 800M relay to wrap up the Harrison County scoring.

"We are improving and the girls are working hard," said Coach Danny Simpson. "We just need to get everyone healthy."

The Thorobreds improved significantly over previous performances as they finished second to Mason County in the large field. Simon Kenton, Rowan County and Eastern Sardinia rounded out the top five finishers.

The 800M relay team of Justin Hunter, Malcolm Walker, Jovon Williams and Jordan Kenney won the event in 1:36.56.

Taylor Bolin also won the pole vault clearing 11 feet.

The Breds grabbed six second place finishes in the meet.

Colton Burus was second in the 110M hurdles, Dominic Walker was second in the discus, Hunter was runner up in the triple jump, Kenney jumped 5-foot-8-inches to finished second in the high jump, and Grant Carr was second in the 800M run.

The 400M relay of Hunter, Deshon Talbott, Williams and Kenney also finished second.

The 1600M relay of Hunter, Brock Jenkins, Keishon Gilkey and Carr was third.

Thorobreds head coach Mac Whitaker enjoys the view form the dugout as his team closes in on the 11-1 win which gave him his 1,000th victory as head coach.

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

It just wasn't like every other night on the Hilltop.

There were extra people attending who cannot come to every game.

The aura of some that have gone before was there even some who have left us and gone to the great reward. Former players were there even players that did not play for Coach Mac Whitaker but wanted to be there for the milestone.

The game was decided for all practical purpose in the second inning as the Thorobreds scored two runs in each of the first two innings to lead 4-0.

Mason County starter and losing pitcher Nathan Craycraft could not find the plate in the game as he walked six batters in the two and two thirds innings that he pitched on Monday evening.

The Breds scored first in the bottom of the first when Brett Persinger walked, Robbie Stroub singled and John King walked to load the bases.

Zach Royce forced Persinger at the plate for the second out but Conner Free drove one between first and second to score both Stroub and King for a 2-0 lead.

The home team put two more on the board in the second inning when Brandon Case walked to start the stanza.

After an infield fly for the first out, Persinger bunted down the third baseline and beat it out for a single.

The Royals' third baseman threw wildly advancing Case to third and Persinger to second.

Stroub then lifted a deep fly to right to score Case with the third run. King singled to left scoring Persinger to make it 4-0 after two complete innings.

While the Thorobreds were scoring runs, senior Harrison County lefty Jordan Riley was pitching one of his better games of the season.

After Mason County put runners on second and third in the first inning with only one out, Riley struck out the clean-up hitter and fifth place hitter to escape without allowing a run.

Lady Jackets edge Fillies Tuesday

The Nicholas County Lady Jackets stopped the Harrison County Fillies seven-game winning streak Tuesday night with a 5-4 win on Shirley Field.

Nicholas County scored all five runs in the top of the sixth to erase a 2-0 Fillies' advantage. Bailey Conley pitched 6 2/3 innings for the Fillies giving up nine hits, walking four and striking out nine.

Sophomores Jonna Watkins and Cara George combined for the win for Nicholas County. They gave up seven hits and six walks in the seven innings they pitched while fanning seven Harrison County batters.

Jima Hill and Sydney Motell were the big hitters for Harrison County as they combined for five hits and four RBIs on the night.

Sydney Fryman, Megan Bretz and Dani Johnson collected seven of the nine Nicholas County hits.

Nicholas County improved to 8-9 for the year while the Fillies fell to 8-4-1.

Alumni Night is Friday on the Hilltop

Schmidt, Earl added to Fence of Fame

The annual Alumni Night will be held this Friday beginning at 5 p.m. on the Hilltop preceding the Harrison County Thorobreds hosting the Lewis County Lions, which begins at 7 p.m.

The Cynthiana-Harrison County Baseball Alumni Association will be there to greet each returning player as they return to the baseball field to reminisce and watch the current team do battle.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. returning players are invited to take batting practice on the field before the two teams begin their warm ups. This activity has been one of the more entertaining parts of the good fellowship that surrounds Alumni Night.

The Fence of Fame presentations will begin at 6:30 p.m. as former Harrison County coaches Jim Schmidt and the late Ronnie Earle will have their names added to the Fence of Fame. All Harrison County baseball fans will want to be on hand for these presentations.

Mike's Minute

I find that I agree with Coach Calipari

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

Often I am told on the street, at Biancke's, and other places that people find that they agree with what I may have written or said on the radio and that the fact that they agreed with me frightened them a bit.

I guess I understand, although what I write or say makes perfect sense to me so it still baffles me somewhat that people may not agree with me.

Anyway, on Thursday morning when I was traveling to Crofton, Ky., and listening to Coach Calipari, I found myself agreeing with him which surprised me some though I wasn't frightened.

I am sure that all of you know where Crofton is so I won't bother with that, but it was a good long trip so I was able to hear the coach as he made guest appearances on two ESPN programs.

The University of Kentucky mentor was lamenting some of the more archaic and ridiculous rules passed down by the NCAA and some solutions to make the major college sports more reasonable for the student athlete and their families.

Much of the talk about the plight of college athletes came to focus after Shabazz Napier of UConn said on national television that he went to bed hungry some nights.

His comments brought about a storm of comments from places other than the regular sports outlets many acting like the fact that the NCAA had ridiculous rules was something new.

It may have been new to some of the band wagon jumpers, but it has not been a secret at all to anyone who pays the slightest bit of attention.

The NCAA, never one to look for bad publicity, has already changed the rule to allow unlimited meals for college athletes.

This is much better than having a rule where if the school provided peanut butter for a bagel it was providing extra benefits or if a player took a sandwich to go from the training table he was getting extra benefits, too.

Calipari spoke of a game in the NCAA Tournament when Brandon Knight made the winning basket but his parents were not able to be in Philadelphia to see it because they could not afford to attend.

This, I agree, is ridiculous when the NCAA is making billions on the tournament that parents of players can not be allowed to attend with help if necessary.

Calipari had a suggestion to pay for the parents trips without affecting the bottom line for the NCAA.

His idea, which again I liked, was for the hoard of media people who attend the games to pay their own way instead of getting free tickets. He also proposed that these same media folks be served popcorn and diet coke instead of full meals to save money to be used for the transportation of the parents.

However it is accomplished, parents of the players should be able to attend the tournament.

Of course, this cannot be written without saying that some of the schools are to blame for some of the precautions taken by the NCAA.

The old saying "Give them an inch and they will take a mile" has never been proven more than by what some of the NCAA member institutions have done over the years.

I am not naming any names here but all of us could fill in a blank or two and I am not talking about excess telephone use but money, cars, and more.

I am against paying the players because that would make life really difficult for the Eastern Kentucky's and Morehead State's of the world.

Gender equity would also come to play in paying players, which would make many already struggling athletic departments cut out some sports to be able to finance the others. But something needs to be done to level the playing field between what the big name coaches, the schools and the NCAA makes and the hardship on some of the players and many of the parents.

er, Bryson Clifford, won 6-0, 6-0, but she was the only singles winner for Harrison County's girls.

Gracie Roberts fell 8-9, and Savanna Hedges lost 4-8.

The Fillies won two of the doubles matches but still lost the match 2-3.

Alycia Schaum/Alexis Lanza lost 4-6, 3-6, Abby Cooper/Reagan Gorman lost 3-6 and Newcomb/Besson lost their match 4-8.

On Friday, the tennis squad split up with the boys hosting Grant County and the girls traveling to Mason County.

The Fillies swept the Lady Royals winning all five matches.

Clifford won 6-4, 6-4, Roberts won by the same 6-4, 6-4 and Lanza won 8-0 in singles play.

The doubles matches were won by Schaum/Lanza 6-1, 7-6 and Dunaway/Lutes 8-5.

The Thorobreds won all three matches sweeping the Braves as did the Fillies sweep Mason County.

Track

Carr took fourth in the 400M dash, Walker was fourth in the shot put and Hunter came in fourth in the 100M dash.

Kenney and Malcolm Walker tied for sixth in the long jump, Burus was seventh in the 300M hurdles and the 3200M relay team of Shane Palmer, Scott Moore, Cory Moore and Austin Short wrapped up the Thorobreds scoring with an eighth place finish.

Three of Harrison County's track athletes will be signing on the dotted line next week for scholarships to compete in track at the next level.

Grant Carr from the Thorobreds and twin sister Haley from the Fillies will be signing with Georgetown College while Caylin Mattox of the Fillies will be signing with Union College joining tennis' Jacob Markley at the Barbourville institution.

The next event for the track squads will be this Saturday when they host the 12-team Harrison County Invitational. The 45th annual event will begin at 10 a.m. in the Athletic Complex.

45th HCHS track invitational is Saturday

The Harrison County Thorobreds and Fillies are scheduled to compete Saturday against 12 other schools in the 45th running of the Harrison County Invitational.

There is one complication as the prom occurs on Saturday night as well and the coaching staff is not sure how that will affect participation from the athletes.

"It (the Invitational) has been on this date for years," said Coach Danny Simpson. "When I found out that this was prom night I had already invited the teams and contacted officials."

The good thing about the early start for the Harrison County Invitational is that it may allow for the athletes to compete and still prepare for one of the biggest events on the school calendar. The field events begin at 10 a.m. with the running events starting at 10:30.

The opposition is strong with Bishop Brossart, Bourbon County, Bracken County, Frankfort, Holmes, Mason County, Nicholas County, Owen County, Pendleton County, Ryle, Scott County and Paris all scheduled to compete with the Harrison County teams.

Admission is $5 for adults with students admitted for $3.

Whitaker

From WHITAKER page 12

That was the best chance the Royals were to have for the game other than a golf shot home run in the fourth by Royal Michael Sutton. Mason County never really threatened.

For the night, Riley gave up five hits, walked two and struck out 10 Royals.

Harrison County scored three more in the third inning on three hits and two more walks.

The fourth inning was more of the same as Harrison County again tallied three runs on only two base hits and two more Mason County errors.

Then in the sixth, Spencer Free walked and C.J. Claypool hit a double to deep right center to drive in Free with the run and the 11-1 win.

For the game, Conner Free and Claypool each had two hits and Robbie Stroub drove in two runs to lead the Thorobreds.

When the final run scored the Thorobreds mobbed Coach Mac Whitaker on the third baseline.

"When I saw all of them coming my way I was a little nervous," laughed the Hall of Fame coach. "They surprised me running down there like they did."

Following the immediate crush of players, the Harrison County athletic director Brad Allison had a few words for the coach and the legion of fans and players.

Allison relayed that Whitaker had accomplished a feat that only three Kentucky high school coaches had achieved that of winning 1,000 games.

He attributed the success of the program to Whitaker's motto of "It's a Matter of Pride."

Principal Amy Coleman and the two daughters of Mac and Connie Whitaker, Noel and Camryn, presented an award to Coach Whitaker in recognition of his 1,000th win as a coach at Harrison County.

After the ceremony, the 37-year veteran coach talked about the night.

"The kids responded tonight against a good pitcher," he began. "This team has great senior leadership and is made up of hard workers. I was especially glad that a senior was on the mound tonight for this game. We are a hometown program with home-grown kids," he continued. "We win for our program, our school and the community. No other community has the support that we get from the media coverage to all of the fans. No one else has it like we do."

Whitaker went on to talk about his coaches. "Jimmy has been with me for almost all of the games," he said speaking of his brother Jimmy Whitaker.

"It all started when Ronnie Herrington and I got together years ago to attempt to learn about the sport and establish a program here at Harrison County. I was lucky that Don Snopek was here to let me work for him and then take over to follow my dreams."

Whitaker went on to mention all of the other coaches and the wives, his and theirs, who sacrifice so much so they can coach.

He also spoke of the work of Cindy Earle and the late Ronnie Earle.

"All of the scouting work and score keeping that they did over the years and that Cindy continues to do, means so much," he said. "I wish Ronnie could be here for this."

The next immediate goal is win number 1,006. That is second of all Kentucky baseball coaches. That mark is held by Green County's Larry Gumm. The most wins by a Kentucky high school baseball coach is 1,028.

Harrison County is scheduled to go for win number 14 for this season against seven losses Tuesday night on the Hilltop when they play the Pendleton County Wildcats.

Harrison County head baseball coach Mac Whitaker, right, became only the third coach in KHSAA history to amass 1,000 career wins Monday in an 11-1 win over Mason County. After the game, Whitaker was presented with a framed jersey by HCHS principal Amy Coleman, left, and his daughters Camryn and Noelle. Earning 1,000 wins adds to Whitaker's list of accomplishments as the Breds' coach, including 33 district titles, 21 region crowns and four state championships.

From BREDS page 12

Pendleton County scored twice in the seventh on a walk, a stolen base and two base hits for the final 8-3.

King led the way for the Thorobreds with three hits and four RBIs and a run scored. The Thorobreds improved to 14-7 with the win while Pendleton County fell to 9-8. Harrison County will host a doubleheader on Thursday with the 17-1 Bourbon County Colonels meeting the Breds at 5 p.m. and the Paris Greyhounds (4-11) the opponent at 7 p.m. Friday night will be Alumni Night and the Fence of Fame Night.

Jim Schmidt and the late Ronnie Earle will be honored at 6:30 p.m. before the Breds face Lewis County (9-6) at 6:45 p.m. This will end the nine-game home stand as the Breds will face Scott County (13-4) on the road Monday and Nicholas County (6-10) on Tuesday in Carlisle.

Farming

Match mulching material with plant's needs

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist
www.SwallowRailFarm.com

Mulch has become a landscape staple, almost to a fault when it is over applied, smothering roots and girdling trunks.

When done properly, it can help to suppress weeds, retain moisture and moderate temperature.

These things can be achieved using a variety of materials but which type of mulch suits your needs best?

Predominately, we use organic materials for mulching. Organic mulches include plant- or animal-derived materials like wood chips, pine needles, tree bark, grass clippings, composted manure and worm castings.

Organic materials have the benefit of looking natural while adding varying amounts of nutrients to the soil.

I personally prefer a mulching material that is nutrient rich so it improves the soil and provides food for the plant while serving its other practical applications.

Inorganic mulching materials include stones, gravel, landscape fabrics, plastics and even recycled tires.

While these may last longer they do not always provide the look that a homeowner wants for their landscape. Because they take less maintenance, they are more often seen in high traffic or municipal areas than around our homes.

Most things serve a purpose if used properly, but there are some concerns with certain inorganic mulching materials and their ability to allow a seasonal warm up and cool down of a plant's root system.

When we mulch to moderate soil temperature we are usually mindful of keeping the roots cool in the summer.

In the winter months, however, I think there is a mixed message about what mulch will achieve.

Organic mulches used properly, 2 to 2 ½" deep, typically allow for the proper warming and cooling of the soil as winter turns to spring and fall turns to winter. Inorganic mulches, however, may cause some delay in the process resulting in winter damage.

In the article Using Mulches in Managed Landscapes (a cooperative effort by Iowa State University, Ohio State University and University of Kentucky) the authors state "Mulch effects on root zone temperature, as well as any potential benefits or consequences for plants, will vary considerably depending on factors such as properties of mulch, soil type, soil moisture, plant species or cultivar, and weather patterns."

I bet you never realized that the type of mulch you choose could have such an effect on your plants.

I mention all this because we need to understand that mulch can create an environment that may make it difficult for the plant to acclimate accordingly from season to season.

Too much mulch before the ground freezes is like having a bikini on underneath your full-length fur.

Take the coat off and you're in for a shock once winter hits.

A plant's root system needs to cool down and slowdown in order to sufficiently go dormant before you mulch the area to prevent heaving and thawing.

Always wait for several hard freezes before you apply mulch for moderating winter soil temperatures.

The same thing can happen in the summer if certain types of materials are used as mulch. Wait until the soil has a chance to warm up a bit before you apply mulch otherwise you may insulate the cool soil and delay the warm up, thus delaying plant growth.

The use of various inorganic mulches can really fool plants, too.

Using black plastic, for instance, is like keeping the fur coat on all summer, not to mention that it doesn't allow for healthy amounts of oxygen to reach the root system.

This can cause double trouble once winter rolls around again, too.

The plant will be slow to go dormant because the root system is still warm and therefore it will be more susceptible to winter damage.

Even using crushed brick, rock or pea gravel may speed up the warming process in the spring.

The University Extension article on mulches cited an example where a red maple broke dormancy early in the spring (around here that means it would likely suffer from late frost damage) likely due to the brick and pea gravel's capacity to conduct heat to the underlying soil.

Gradual warming and cooling of the soil is best and mulch should be used to moderate the soil temperature seasonally.

None of this is to say that you should not use certain materials as mulch, however match them up accordingly with what you want to achieve and what the cultural realities are for your plants.

Use black plastic around your tomato plants, these annuals love warm soil and they only live a short time. I would avoid using it with anything that lives longer than a couple of months, though.

The gorgeous day saw numerous youngsters participating in the annual Frankie Taylor Memorial Easter egg hunt held Saturday, April 19 at Ingles Stadium on the Hilltop. The event is sponsored by the family of the late Frankie Taylor, the Rev. Ross Committee, and NorthEast and SouthWest Family Resource Centers.
